A superhero, by definition, is a person who fights crime or evil and possesses supernatural or superhuman powers. From Christopher Nolan's Batman trilogy to Marvel's impressive opus of Avengers related movies, superhero movies have been storming the globe with detailed digital effects and fast-paced cinematography. Discounting new-fangled visual effects in these films, are there other elements that contribute towards the immense popularity of the genre? For this exam, reflect and elaborate on possible cultural, historical, psychological, and/or social reasons for the public's fascination with the superheroes genre. Please organize your answer in a structured essay within 500 words, and apply an appropriate title. You will be graded according to the logic, coherency, and clarity of your arguments.
